

Critique Paper Third Quarter PT

Speech Title:	Grit: The Strongest Predictor of Success
Speaker:	Angela Duckworth
Summary of the Video:	The video emphasizes the importance of children acquiring the concept of life while they are still developing as individuals. In terms of academics, kids should be aware that grades aren't the only factor that matters in school; students should be motivated to learn and comprehend everything that is discussed throughout the session. Education is not a foundation for how you should live your life or how others should view you. We must think carefully about our life choices as individuals living in a world full with judgments. Many people believe that education is the key to success, but this is not the case. As we can see, many graduates, even those with honors, were unable to find work owing to a lack of experience; in other words, education is not the sole means of achieving one's life goals. We will regard education as the path to triumph at first, but we will later discover that education is simply one of the paths you will take through life's hardships before finally obtaining the achievement you desire. When you have already achieved the achievement you desire, the actual score of life begins.
Speech Content:	The speech contains a daily life and work of a experienced teacher and she's talking about her life from making their assignments and to take care of her students. She's also talking about her students don't have the same grades. Some of her students are bad and some are good as what she said.
Introduction: (How did the speech start?)	Introduction: The speech start about her life. In her late 20s, Angela Lee Duckworth left a demanding job as a management consultant at McKinsey to teach math in public schools in San Francisco, Philadelphia

Delivery Skills and Techniques (What are the best/worst delivery skills/techniques of the speaker?)	The technique she used is to study children and adults in challenging environments, including West Point military cadets, national spelling bee contestants, and rookie teachers in difficult schools. In each study, she and her research team asked the same question: "Who is successful here and why?"
Bias/Prejudice (Did the speaker show bias? Why? Why not?)	The teacher doesn't show any negative attitude in her students, she treated everyone equally and doesn't show any favoritism because she knows that if she have a favorite student the other students will judge her and not be interested class or lessons.
Ted Talk Review (Would you recommend this video to fellow students? Explain.)	I will recommend this to my fellow student because the video emphasizes the about children acquiring the concept of life. This video can give motivation to those children with lower IQ, as said in the video not all people with higher IQ became successful in life, but people with GRIT. This could Motivate the students have more effort and passion on doing the things that they want.
